

key aspects of the problem of illegal gambling on collegiate sporting events, namely, what is being done by federal and state officials to enforce existing laws, whether law enforcement has the proper tools and adequate funding to address illegal gambling on college sports, and, what colleges and universities are doing to address the problem of illegal gambling, especially on their own campuses. The legislation I am introducing today would follow the recommendations of the NCAA report by directing the Justice Department to examine these issues and report back to the Congress.

Mr. President, the growing attraction of illegal gambling among our college youth is a serious national problem that requires a serious response. We must have a solution to this problem, however, that accurately addressed the source of illegal college sports gambling. The alternative legislation I am introducing today, which focuses on stronger enforcement of existing laws and education campaigns, follows the correct path toward addressing the root causes of this problem and finding the most effective and appropriate solution.
